Allies Take Seven Strategic Towns In Italian Advance

British-American Fifth Army 12 Miles From Important German Escape Corridor

ROME, Sept. 28 (CP).—Seven strategic towns have been occupied by Allied troops advancing up both coasts of the peninsula and in the rugged central sector where troops of the British-American Fifth Army were only 12 miles from an important Nazi escape route, Allied headquarters reported today.

British and Canadian troops in the Adriatic sector enlarged their bridgehead over the Rubicon to a two-mile depth along a ten-mile front. Italian patriots seized the town of Bellaria, seven miles beyond Rimini, and held it until Canadian forces pushed in and cleared out small Nazi nests.

Canadian troops farther inland continued to wage an infantryman's war. Over ground studded with minefields, ditches, wire and blown-up roads that tied up tanks, the Canadian footsloggers plunged on, crossing one river after another.

Towns seized in addition to Castel del Rio and Bellaria were Castiglione, in the highlands about 23 miles south of Bologna and on a main highway; Fiumicelli, five miles east of Casaleggio, where after hard fighting Empire troops became firmly established on Mount Benelli and Mount Predelli; Bocconi, an island town taken by British troops; Querceta, a west coast port several miles below Massa, and near-by Vellechia.

The drive of the Eighth Army over the Rubicon placed British forces at the approaches to Savignano, on the Po valley's edge several miles west-northwest of Rimini. Capture of Castel del Rio brought allied Fifth Army forces to within 12 miles of Imola, important Po valley city astride the Rimini-Bologna highway, which enemy forces would need for a retreat from the Adriatic sector, now threatened by the British push into the valley's level lands.

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London
News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1944, by Southern Co.)
LONDON, Sept. 28.—Retreat of remnants of the British airborne division from Arnhem, says The Times editorially, is one of the most important tactical successes the Germans have gained in Western Europe since the invasion began. Bad weather favored the enemy from the beginning and the odds became irretrievable.

Nevertheless this daring challenge to the fortunes of war was justified as a risk that might have been a great success. Now the Allied strategy has to be readjusted to the closing of what looked like a short cut to victory over the Rhineland defenses.

There is no turning of the German flank as was hoped, and the long and narrow salient into Holland has yet to be consolidated. Troops here must be prepared to make the shock of counter-attacks for the Germans will seek to follow up their success at Arnhem.

What is now taking place is a contest for the initiative extending over the whole British salient in Holland, with there still the possibility of continuing a large German army in an awkward position against the sea coast. Meanwhile to the east, from Aachen to Belfort, Allied pressure on the enemy's frontier is never relaxed. It remains to discover or create other points of weakness that can be exploited.

The Times' military correspondent in his analysis of the Arnhem operation says bad weather, which prevented dropping adequate supplies from the air, tipped the balance against the heroic airborne division. The Germans will now probably be able to consolidate their positions on the Lower Rhine.

Having cleared the Nazis out of Estonia, the Red Army is now switching its main attack against Riga. Large forces are advancing southward, and already they are within 50 miles of the great Baltic port.

Juncture has been made between the army from the north and that battling its way across the Latvian plains. Inside Warsaw all Polish organizations have joined together against the Germans and members

Canadians and Indians of the Eighth Army train together, fight together and swear by each other's fighting ability. Picture shows a wireless-telephony class behind the lines with Indian officers receiving instructions on an infantry telephone set. In foreground, left to right, are: Tpr. W. F. Kananen, Barons, Alta., and Tpr. R. H. Turnbull, Montreal, both of a Western Canadian tank regiment. The Indians looking on are Jemadar (Second Lieut.) R. Nikam, Bombay, and Sepoy (Pte.) Kabinath, of Jadhao, Bombay.

Enormous Forces to Go Into Battle if Nazis Not Beaten Soon

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill warned the United Nations today that the war against Germany might continue several months into 1945, and said "enormous" additional American troops would be thrown into the struggle "unless organized German resistance collapses in the near future."

Appearing before the House of Commons in a long report on the war, the Prime Minister reaffirmed his country's determination to pursue the war against Japan "with all her strength and resources to the very end," and declared that Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia were more closely and effectively united than ever before. He said he hoped for another meeting with Premier Stalin and President Roosevelt before the end of the year.

Despite the fact that Germany already had lost close to 1,000,000 men in Northwest Europe, Mr.

Churchill said he deprecated talk of an early peace. "I shall certainly not hazard a guess—it could be no more than a guess—as to when the end will come," he said. "Many persons of the highest technical attainments, knowledge and responsibility have good hopes that it will all be over by the end of 1944. On the other hand, no one—certainly not I—can guarantee that several months of 1945 may not be required."

He revealed that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 Allied troops already were engaged on the Western Front. Mr. Churchill warmly praised Britain's American and Russian Allies, but at the same time pointed out the huge part that the Commonwealth had played in more than five years of war.

Nearly half the divisions on the entire battlefield in Italy, he said, were from the United Kingdom. With them in the British Eighth Army were Canadian, New Zealand, South African and Indian divisions. He revealed that Britain formed half of the American-commanded Fifth Army in Italy.

Referring to the campaign in Western Europe, he said amid cheers: "It was with great pleasure that we all saw the British and Canadian armies . . . Show them the same spirit of lightning advances which certainly have not been surpassed anywhere."

Turning to the question of the peace, Mr. Churchill said there were great difficulties to be overcome. "Everything depends," he said, "upon the agreement of the three leading European powers and world powers. I do not think a satisfactory agreement will be reached . . . Until there has been a further meeting of the three heads of Government, assisted as may be necessary by their foreign secretaries."

Great Day for R.C.A.F. Flyers

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP).—The Canadian Bomber Group today sent out its most powerful force of the war to attack German gun and defence positions in the Cap Gris Nez area. All of the more than 250 heavy bombers on the raid returned.

The attack brought a message from the Bomber Command congratulating the group on a job well done.

"Guns won't be firing from that place again," said Flt. Sgt. Bill Mountain, of Stratford, Ont.

Aircraft from all squadrons in the group took part in the raid. Canadian Spitfire pilots today destroyed two more German aircraft over the vital Nijmegen Bridge in Holland to raise their two-day total of enemy aircraft shot down to 38.

Pilot of Wing Cmdr. D. A. L. Russell's wing, who are credited with 39 destroyed and 14 damaged in three and a half days, scored today's victories, to which they added four enemy aircraft damaged.

The successful pilots were Flt. Lts. Max Port, Weyburn, Sask., and P.O. Graham, of Dutton, Ont. Damaged planes were credited to Flt. Lts. Gordon Lapp, Medicine Hat, Alta., and Stan McElwain, Winnipeg.

Prepare Plans for Buildings Totalling Over $3,000,000

By the time plans now under way are completed, the Provincial architect's office will have drawn detailed plans for more than $3,000,000 worth of buildings since January, Henry Whitaker revealed yesterday. Many of the projects are now in the construction stage; tenders are being called for others, and a few are still some time in the future. The projects, do not include rehabilitation proposals.

In addition to a large programme of Government projects, the architect's office has prepared plans, or assisted in preparing them, for semi-public and public projects of various nature, ranging from schools to the Kiwanis tuberculosis occupational ward recently opened at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Supervision, an important part of the staff's duties, has been carried out not only on new buildings but also on buildings to which repairs and alterations were made. The demands have been unusually heavy upon a staff which has suffered war's inroads with most others.

Among the projects for which plans were drawn this year were: Remodeling New Westminster Memorial Hospital, $300,000; kitchen block at mental hospital, $25,000; school house at mental hospital, $44,000; new home for aged at Esquimalt, $144,000; recreational building at

U.S. Draft Dodgers To Lose Citizenship

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed 27 bills into law today—including one which created a group of "men without a country."

The measure provides that persons who left the United States to evade military service shall lose their citizenship and be denied readmission to the country. In such cases, Justice Department officials said, the persons usually can not achieve citizenship elsewhere.

Carrier Planes Sink 22 Vessels

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 28 (AP).—Sweeping the Visayan Islands in the Central Philippines, United States carrier-bomber planes sank 22 ships, damaged 40, of which more than 15 probably were sunk, and sank or damaged between 20 and 30 small craft, September 23, Pacific Fleet headquarters announced today.

The planes also attacked airfields on Cebu, Leyte, Negros, Macian and Southern Luzon, destroying 29 aircraft on the ground.

During the day, only seven Japanese planes were encountered in the air. All were shot down.

American losses were five aircraft, from which five pilots and three flight personnel are missing.

Ships sunk included a destroyer, a troop transport, three large cargo ships and three large tankers.

Smash at Chinese Base at Paoching

CHUNGKING, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Japanese, halting for the moment their Kwailin campaign to split China in half, turned and smashed from three sides today at the Chinese stronghold of Paoching, the presence of which on the right flank has harassed the enemy offensive.

The Chinese High Command said the Japanese striking from the north and south were joined by a column which broke across the Tzu River on the west and was engaged in severe fighting only three miles from Paoching.

This action to clear the right flank, approximately 155 miles northeast of Kwailin, apparently had stalled the enemy push against the latter city, now awaiting the enemy's long-expected assault.

Nine Dead in Train Wreck

MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Sept. 28 (Friday) (AP).—At least nine persons lost their lives and about 100 were injured in a collision Thursday night between a Chicago & Northwestern passenger and freight train on the outskirts of Missouri Valley.

Other reports from persons at the scene of the wreck placed the casualties at possibly eight dead, four not expected to live and up to 100 injured. Editor Willard Dale, of The Missouri Valley Times, reported.

Three dead were brought to Council Bluffs, where one of the victims was identified as Ed Mayer, about 50, of Ashland, Neb. Two other dead included another man, and a two-year-old girl.

Editor Dale, who gave the casualty figures after inspecting the scene, said the wreckage was scattered half a mile along the track after a fast freight and a passenger train, both of the Chicago & Northwestern line, collided.

The freight train, the Calumet, which makes a regular run to Chicago from Council Bluffs, was on its way to Chicago from Council Bluffs, and was carrying a fast freight and a passenger train, both of the Chicago & Northwestern line, collided.

Permit Soviets to Enter Yugoslavia

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (Friday) (AP).—The Red Army has asked and received permission from Marshal Tito to enter Yugoslavia in its pursuit of German and Hungarian forces.

A special announcement by the Moscow radio said the right of entry was granted on condition that civil authority will continue to be vested in the Yugoslav National Committee of Liberation. The Soviet Command accepted the condition, promising no interference in civilian matters.

The announcement made it plain the Red Army plans to withdraw from Yugoslavia after its mission against the Hungarians and Germans has been fulfilled.

Sink 10,000-Ton Enemy Transport

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Sept. 28 (Friday) (AP).—Attacking a seven-ship convoy, an American patrol plane sank a 10,000-ton Japanese transport and badly damaged another smaller troopship in the first Allied strike over the Bulu Archipelago, Southwest Philippines, reported today by headquarters.

This brought to 15 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in the last six days by Southwest Pacific planes. They ranged from 1,000 to 10,000 tons.

Pierce Belfort Gap Defences

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The B.B.C. reported tonight "French troops have pierced the first line of German defences in the Belfort Gap."

Savage Sky Battles on Great Raid

Luftwaffe Seeks to Stop Allied Assault

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP).—Savage sky battles were fought over Germany again today as the Luftwaffe sought to stem the mass Allied air assault which carried through its fourth consecutive day and cost the United States Eighth Air Force 49 heavy bombers and 12 fighters.

Allied planes of every sort swept across the Continent in widespread attacks against German industrial and supply targets, but today's principal blows were struck by more than 1,000 heavy bombers and 700 escorting fighters of the Eighth Air Force against Magdeburg, Kassel and Merseburg in Central Germany.

R.A.F. heavy bombers, meanwhile, blasted Calais twice.

The German air force resisted, viciously and flak was heavy as the American bombers carried out their attacks.

A communiqué said some missing American fighters may have landed in friendly territory, but the figures announced brought the two-day losses of the Eighth Air Force to 91 heavy bombers and 19 fighters.

Thirty-six German fighters were shot down, bringing the two-day score of the air battles to 77 enemy planes lost.

Bombs crashed into Kassel for the third time in 24 hours as the United States Third Bomber Task Force struck the Henschel tank works.

Medium bombers of the Second Tactical Air Force attacked about 60 enemy fighters when they bombed Emmerich, a Netherlands-German border point used by the Germans to supply the battle-front in the Nijmegen and Arnhem areas.

McNaughton Will Leave Army in Rank of General

Designer of Canada's Modern Mechanized Forces Asks and Is Granted His Freedom

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP).—Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, 57, former commander of the Canadian Army overseas, has retired from the army with the rank of full general, it was announced tonight by Defence Minister Ralston.

He thus becomes the second full general in Canadian army history. The first was Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian Corps in the First Great War, who was given his promotion when he returned to Canada. Sir Arthur's predecessor as corps commander, Lord Byng, former Governor General, was appointed to command the Third British Army.

Col. Ralston's announcement gave no hint as to the general's future plans. It was learned on good authority, however, that for the present, at least, the general will not return to his former post as president of the National Research Council.

In a letter to the Minister dated September 22, Gen. McNaughton said: "With the encouraging march of events abroad I do not believe that any useful purpose will be served by my continuing to hold myself available for return to the army, and I think that the time has come when I should be free to give my attention to other matters. I hope therefore that you will arrange that I may be released as soon as convenient."

Col. Ralston expressed "the deepest regret" at the general's retirement, which was effective September 27.

"I entirely understand your desire to be relieved of further army responsibilities in order to be able to devote your attention to other matters. You recognize that at this stage of the war it is hard to foresee likelihood of army activities which could command your very exceptional qualities and your experience and seniority. Accordingly, in view of your letter and so that you can make plans for the future, I will

Bomb Damage Listed

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP).—The list of London's bomb damage as given today in the House of Commons: Houses damaged beyond repair, 25,311. Houses seriously damaged and not habitable, 32,277. Houses damaged, but habitable, 7,000. Houses slightly damaged, $73,177. Total, 1,027,995.

2,000,000 to 3,000,000 Allied Fighting Men Massing on 460-Mile Front in Europe

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP).—The British Second Army lashed out east, west and north tonight in drives to pin perhaps 200,000 Germans against the sea in Western Holland and menace German soil along a 15-mile front little more than ten miles from the northern end of the Siegfried Line at Kleve.

Powerful elements of Lt. Gen. Dempsey's army—at the apex of a 460-mile front where Prime Minister Churchill said 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 Allied fighting men were massing—moved up along the Maas (Meuse) River.

They were distributed over a meandering front of 15 miles from Cuyk, 11 miles southwest of Kleve, southward to Vierlingsbeek, on the west bank of the Maas where it winds from three to five miles from the German frontier, Associated Press Correspondent Roger Greene reported.

They had smashed back enemy forces which had been trying to cut the Netherlands corridor—now firmly cemented and widened—and the only Germans still west of the Maas to bother them were in a small pocket near Overloon, three miles southwest of Vierlingsbeek.

Westward from the corridor the Tommies fought forward another five miles to within five miles of the highway centre of Hertogenbosch, which is 25 miles southwest of the main Allied crossing of the Waal Rhine at Nijmegen and 18 miles northwest of the British base of Eindhoven.

On the north they widened to five miles their hold on the north branch of the Rhine south and west of their ill-fated Arnhem foothold, narrowing to about 25 miles the dry-land route of escape for the big German force walled off south of IJssel Meer formerly the Zuider Zee.

Mr. Churchill estimated this force of Germans at 200,000 and declared their "destruction or capture may now be deemed highly probable." These Germans show no inclination to pull out immediately. They wrested Roessel, 15 miles southwest of Eindhoven, from the British forces and were beaten back only after sharp fighting in an attack on the corridor five miles west of Veghel, midway between Eindhoven and Nijmegen.

Halfway between Nijmegen and Arnhem, British troops cleared the last Germans from Elst and sent strong patrols probing enemy positions.

Former commander of the Canadian army overseas, whose retirement was announced yesterday by Defence Minister Ralston.

Praises Work At Esquimalt

High praise for the fine quality of work done by West Coast shipyards was voiced yesterday by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederic Wake-Walker, K.C.B., C.B.E., Third Sea Lord and Comptroller of the Royal Navy, when he visited Yarrow, Ltd., and inspected a 300-foot freighter recently completed.

The noted Sea Lord and his party were met at 10 o'clock in the morning by Norman Yarrow, president of the firm of shipbuilders, who conducted the admiral on a tour of Yard No. 1, accompanying him to a luncheon at Government House and later on a tour of Yard No. 2.

The admiral's party included Vice-Admiral Sir Alfred Evans, K.C.B., C.B., head of the British Admiralty Technical Mission, and its representatives in Canada; Frank M. Ross, representing the Minister of Munitions and Supply; Miss R. Nash, his personal secretary, and Paymaster Cmdr. E. S. Satterthwaite, R.N., naval secretary to Admiral Evans.

Vice-Admiral Wake-Walker and his party showed keen interest in the work being done for the British Admiralty at Yarrow, and in details of construction of the frigate, asking many questions of company officials and stopping to chat with workmen. The group has spent the past three weeks on a comprehensive tour of principal Canadian plants making naval armaments and equipment, arriving at Vancouver last Sunday.

Those who greeted the distinguished naval officer included: E. W. Isard, general manager of Yarrow, Ltd.; G. D. Crumb, assistant general manager; Douglas Forsyth, resident technical adviser of the British Admiralty Technical Mission; J. R. Potts, resident Admiralty overseer, and Frank Boomer, resident engineering overseer, both with the technical staff.

Would Hold Peace Talks in Ontario

INTERNATIONAL PALMS, Mich., Sept. 28 (CP).—Mayor P. T. Kroening said today he had received promises of co-operation from the White House and from the secretary of the International Peace and Democracy Committee, for a preliminary world conference if another Churchill-Roosevelt meeting is planned.

Invitation for such a meeting was extended several weeks ago by civic and labor leaders through Mayor Kroening and Acting Mayor C. H. Hammond, of Port Frances.

The invitations to Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt and Earl Halifax, the mayor said, pointed out that the unfriendly border and long period of friendly relations between Canada and the United States are a perfect symbol of peace for which the world leaders are striving.

Churchill Reviews War in Detail Deprecates Belief Fight Nearly Over in Europe

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP).—Following is a partial text of Prime Minister Churchill's address in the House of Commons today:

Little more than seven weeks have passed since we rose for the summer recess, but this short period has completely changed the face of the war in Europe.

What a transformation meets our eyes. Not only Paris but practically the whole of France has been liberated, as if by enchantment. Belgium has been rescued. Part of Holland is already free. The foul enemy who for four years inflicted his cruelties and oppression upon those countries has fled, leaving perhaps 400,000 in killed and wounded, and leaving in our hands nearly half a million prisoners.

Besides these there may well be 200,000 of them in the coastal fortresses of Holland whose destruction or capture may now be deemed highly probable. . . .

Conducted under the supreme command of Gen. Eisenhower, all these operations have taken place and all were the fruit of the world-famous Battle of Normandy, the greatest and most decisive battle of the entire war. Never has the exploitation of victory been carried to higher perfection.

The chaos and destruction wrought by the Allied air forces behind the battlefield has been indescribable in narrative and a factor of the utmost potency in the actual struggle. . . .

It was with great pleasure we all saw British and Canadian armies who had so long fought against heavy resistance by the enemy along the hinge of Allied movements show themselves also capable of lightning advances which certainly have not been surpassed anywhere (cheers).

I am very glad to say that we have been able to make a worthy contribution (cheers). . . .

After 120 days of fighting we still have in cross-Channel troops a proportion of two to three in personnel and of four to five and one-half in fighting divisions in France.

The casualties have followed very closely the proportion of numbers. In fact, these troops fight so level that the casualties almost exactly follow the numbers engaged. . . .

I regret to say, lost upwards of 90,000 men killed, wounded and missing and the United States, including General Patch's Army, over 145,000. Such is the price in blood paid by the English-speaking democracies for the actual liberation of the soil of France.

BORE BRUNT OF LAND STRUGGLE

The terms in which Marshal Stalin recently, in conversation, has referred to our campaigns in the West have been of such a generous and admiring character that I felt, in my turn, bound to point out that Russia is holding and beating far larger hostile forces than those which face the Allies in the West, and has through long years, at enormous losses, borne the brunt of the struggle on land (cheers).

I was somewhat concerned to observe from my reading of the American press, in which I indulged during my stay on the other side, that misconceptions exist in the public mind as far as it is reflected by the newspaper about the skill of our efforts in Burma. . . .

It is well known that the United States have been increasingly engaged in establishing an air route to China capable of carrying immense supplies. . . .

ALONG THE EASTERN FRONTIER

Along the eastern frontier of India stands the Fourteenth British Imperial Army. . . .

JAPANESE DIVISIONS ARE SHATTERED

The ten Japanese divisions, which were launched against us with the object of invading India and cutting the air line, have been repulsed and largely shattered as the result of the bloody and costly campaign which is still being continued in spite of the monsoon season.

In the first six months of this year the 14th British Imperial Army sustained no fewer than 240,000 casualties, which had to be evacuated to the rear over the long and difficult communications and tended in hospital. . . .

THE CAMPAIGN OF ADRIATIC MOUNTAINS

The campaign of the Adriatic Mountains and this is a startling fact—the largest and most important military operation that has taken place against the armies of Japan. . . .

HITLER IS NO NAPOLEON

I always like comparing Napoleon with Hitler as it seems an insult to the great emperor and warrior to compare him in any way with a second-rate, mediocre figure like Hitler. . . .

MORE THAN MATCH FOR ENEMY

These soldiers, like our own from Great Britain—who have been even longer under arms—are capable of being placed immediately on landing in the battle line and have proved themselves more than a match for the so-called veteran troops of Germany, who though

250,000 Men Put Ashore in 24-Hour Period on "D" Day, Churchill Discloses

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill today disclosed these figures on the Western invasion: German killed and wounded "perhaps" 400,000.

German prisoners taken—"nearly half a million."

Germans trapped along Netherlands coast, likely to be captured or destroyed—"may well be" 200,000.

Landed in first 24 hours of invasion—quarter of a million men.

Ashore by 20th day—1,000,000 men.

Now in France—between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 Allied men.

Proportion of British troops to American—two British to three American in personnel, four to five and one-half in fighting divisions.

Casualties American—"over" 145,000 in killed, wounded and missing; British—"upwards of" 90,000. Mr. Churchill said American and British casualties closely followed proportions of numbers employed.

seen and is, of course, the prime cause of the impending ruin of Germany. . . .

Thus we hope to place in the Pacific a fleet capable in itself of fighting a general action with the Japanese navy and which, added to the far greater United States naval power, should give a naval command of all these vast ocean spaces and seas of the most complete and decisive character.

One must also certainly contemplate that a phase in the war against Japan will be the severe, intense, prolonged and ever-increasing air bombardment to which the Japanese mainland installations and munitions centres will be subjected. In this also we shall bear our part to the utmost limit which the bases will allow.

As for the land or amphibious operations which the British Empire will conduct, these must rightly be veiled in mystery. Suffice it to say that the scale of our effort will be limited only by the available shipping.

I must, however, add a word of caution against taking too optimistic a view of the speed at which these great transfers of forces can be made from one side of the world to the other.

TECHNICAL POWER CEASELESSLY EMPLOYED

The House may rest assured that the entire brain and technical power of Britain and the United States will be ceaselessly employed and, having regard to the results which have already been obtained in so many directions, one may feel good confidence that it will not be employed in vain.

(At this point Mr. Churchill called for "an interlude for lunch.")

Never was the alliance against Germany of the three great powers more close or more effective. Divergences of views and interests there must necessarily be, but at no time have these been allowed to affect in any way the majestic march of events in accordance with the agreements and decisions at Tehran.

The armistice terms agreed upon with Finland and Romania bear naturally the impress of the Soviet will and here I must draw attention to the restraint which has characterized the Soviet terms to these two countries. (Bulgarians) may want to be treated as co-belligerents. So far as Great Britain is concerned they must work their passage for a long time and in no uncertain fashion before we can accord them an special status in view of the injuries our allies in Greece and Yugoslavia have sustained at their hands.

It would be affectionate to pretend that the attitude of the British Government and, I believe, of the United States Government toward Poland is identical with that of the Soviet Union. We have sentiments and duties towards Poland which deeply stir the British race. I trust that the Soviet Government will make it possible for us to act unitedly with them in this solution of the Polish problems and that we shall not witness the unhappy spectacle of rival governments in Poland, one recognized by the Soviet Union and the other firmly adhered to by the Western powers. . . .

RESPONSIBILITY TOWARDS POLAND

We recognize our special responsibility towards Poland and I am confident that I can trust the House not to encourage any language which would make our task the harder.

What impressed me and touched me most in my journey in Italy was the extraordinary good will to British and American troops everywhere displayed by the Italian people. . . .

Obviously no final settlement can be made with them until the North of Italy has been liberated and the basis on which the present Government stands has been broadened and strengthened.

For my part I always felt that the heart of the French nation was sound and true and that they would rise again in their greatness and power. . . .

It would now seem possible to put into force the decree of the Algiers Committee whereby at an interim stage the Legislative Assembly would be transformed into an elected body reinforced by the addition of new elements drawn from inside France.

It would render possible that recognition of the Provisional Government of France and the consequences thereof which we all desire to bring about at the earliest moment.

At Dumbarton Oaks the whole scene has been explored and many difficulties have been met merely discovered but adjusted. There are, however, still some important outstanding questions and we ought not to be hurried into decisions upon which united opinion by the various Governments responsible is not at present ripe. . . .

There is another warning I would venture to give to the House and that is not to be startled or carried away by sensational reports and stories which emanate from the other side of the Atlantic. There is an election on and very vivid accounts of all kinds of matters are given by people who cannot possibly have any knowledge of what has taken place at secret conferences. . . .

The fact that the United States is a land of free speech. Nowhere is speech freer. Not even here where we sedulously cultivate it even in its most repulsive form. But when I see some of the accounts given of conversations I am supposed to have had with the President of the United States I can only recall a Balfourian phrase of many years ago when he said that the accounts which were given here no more relation to the actual facts than the wildest tales of the Arabian Nights to the ordinary incidents of domestic life in the East.

EVERYTHING DEPENDS UPON AGREEMENT

Everything depends upon the agreement of the three leading European powers and most powers. I do not think a satisfactory agreement will be reached—unless there is an agreement nothing can be satisfactory—until there has been a further meeting of the three heads of Government, assisted as may be necessary by their Foreign Secretaries.

I earnestly hope it may be possible to bring about such a meeting before the end of the year. There are great difficulties, but I earnestly hope they may be overcome. . . .

The fact that the President and I have been so closely brought together at the Quebec Conference and have been able to discuss so many matters bearing upon the course of the war and of the measures to be taken after the German surrender and also for a broad future, this fact makes it all the more necessary that our third partner, Marshal Stalin, who has of course been kept informed, should join with us in a tripartite conference as soon as the military situation renders this possible.

The future of the whole world and generally the future of Europe perhaps for several generations depends upon the cordial, truthful and comprehensive association of the British Empire, the United States and Soviet Russia, and no pains must be spared and no patience grudged which are necessary to bring that supreme hope to fruition.

Whenever we are asked in the near future to be regarded as only a preliminary to the actual establishment in its final form of the future world organization, . . .

RIGHT TO MAKE PREPARATIONS

It is right to make surveys and preparations, but many many have been made and are being made, but great decisions cannot be taken even for the transition period without far closer, calmer and more searching discussions than can be held amid the clash of arms. . . .

I am sure this is not the time for taking hard and fast, momentous decisions on incomplete data and at breakneck speed. Hasty work and premature decisions may lead to penalties out of all proportion to the issues immediately involved. . . .

I have sedulously avoided the appearance of any one country trying to lay down the law to its powerful allies or any of the other states involved. I hope, however, that I have given the House some impression of the heavy and critical work that is going forward and will be before us even after the downfall of our principal enemy has been effected.

I trust that what I have said will be weighed with care and good will not only in the House and in this country but also in far wider circles, and that it will be a help and a guide to all who are concerned.

Capitol Presents Sparkling Comedy

Once upon a time, a caterpillar danced its way into the hearts of four continents. That sounds like a fable of old. But it isn't. It's a modern story about a short story writer and the adventures of his her imagination.

It's a yarn of how a world steeped in blood and sweat and tears chucked delightfully over a charming fantasy and made it one of the most celebrated radio programmes of all time; of how today motion picture audiences are chuckling even more over its film version, which starts its local run at the Capitol Theatre today. Columbia, its producer, calls it "Once Upon a Time." It has Cary Grant as its star and Janet Blair, Jimmie Gleason and Ted Donaldson as its feature players.

"Tom Sawyer" Is At the Dominion

"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," presented by Belnick International, will open today at the Dominion Theatre. The story was written by Mark Twain, world's favorite author, directed by Norman Taurog and released through United Artists.

Mark Twain touched the heart of the world with his beloved characters—Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Aunt Polly and Becky Thatcher—now brought to life in this great new Technicolor production.

The story was produced by David
O. Selznick, the man who gave us such pictures as "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Nothing Sacred," "David
Copperfield," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Viva Villa," "A Star Is Born," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and "Anna Karenina." Mr. Selznick believes his greatest film to be
"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

In cast of "Tom Sawyer" are Tommy Kelly, Jack Moran, May
Robson, Walter Brennan and Victor
Jory.

"Minstrel Man" to Show Thursday at the York

Comedy and villainy, bathos and pathos—they are all the same for Alan Dinehart, portrayer extraordinary of all types of roles on stage and screen. Dinehart, featured in P.R.C.'s "Minstrel Man," in Benny Fields' vehicle, is at home in any kind of part, for he has played them all. He can lay claim to one of the longest lists of accomplishments in the entertainment world.

Glady's George is co-starred with Benny Fields in "Minstrel Man," with Alan Dinehart, Roscoe Karns and Judy Clark heading the supporting cast. The picture will show here next Thursday at the York Theatre.

ATLAS A valuable document of a research script now is in the safe-keeping of the Naval Museum at Annapolis. The script was used for the filming of Para-mount's "The Story of Dr. Wassell," produced by Cecil B. DeMille in Technicolor and now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

CADET "Gung Ho"—that's the THEATRE thrilling battle cry of the famed Carlson's Raiders whose great story is graphically depicted in Universal's Marine Corps film "Gung Ho," which is now playing at the Cadet Theatre.

"Gung Ho" is a cry that struck terror into Japanese hearts. Randolph Scott, as Colonel Thorwald, heads the cast of the film, other artists being Alan Curtis, Grace
McDonald, Noah Beery, Jr., J. Carrol
Nash and David Bruce.

PLAZA Dorothy Peterson, who THEATRE appears as Susanna Foster's aunt in the Universal comedy romance, "This Is the Life," currently showing at the Plaza Theatre, is the only known actress from Zion City, Ill., to "make good" in motion pictures. Zion City is the centre of the fol- lowers of the late Alexander Dowrie Loria.

Rev. J. L. W. McLean will officiate at funeral services for the late Mrs. Jessie Purdie Wood in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mrs. Wood was born in Edinburgh,
County of Roxburgh, Scotland, 78 years ago, and came to Victoria in 1881. For the past 23 years she had resided in Cowichan district. She passed away at the Royal Jubilee Hospital last Tuesday.

The late Mrs. Wood is survived by her husband, James, a daughter, Mrs. David Nicol, and two granddaughters, Mrs. Frank Busted, Vancouver, and Mable Nicol, Vietoria.

JANET BLAIR
Who is appearing opposite Cary Grant in Columbia's whimsical comedy
"Once Upon a Time," currently tickling the patrons' funny-bones at the Capitol Theatre, Janet is giving the most heart-warming performance of her career as young Ted Donaldson's chorus girl sister. Alexander Hall directed this picture which tells the fabulous story of a Broadway producer's promotion of a dancing caterpillar.

Complain British Get Scant Space

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP)—Several members of the House of Commons raised the question yesterday whether the exploits of British troops throughout the world were getting full recognition in the United States press.

Alfred Edwards, Labor, asked whether unnecessarily strict British censorship kept American correspondents from sending full accounts. Ernest Thurtle, Parliamentary secretary for the Ministry of Information, replied: "I am unaware of this."

Sir Thomas Moore, Conservative, asked "Why is it that from United States papers it is almost to be gathered that British troops are not in the field at all?"
Mr. Thurtle replied: "It may well be that the correspondents provide the necessary material to the editors, but that the editors cannot find space for it."

Men of Arnhem

The British First Airborne Division, men of whom turned the bridgehead across the Neder River into a sea of German dead, will probably go down in military history as the "John Bulls." For eight days and nights they held off vastly superior forces of the enemy, prevented German efforts to stop the main Allied advance into Holland, and brought out 2,000 survivors, after leaving 6,000 dead, wounded or prisoners on the field of battle. Of many daring deeds in this war, the Men of Arnhem set a mark for the new airborne divisions which will take a great deal to surpass. The action was sheer grit and determination all through.

In "Operation, Berlin," being the retreat across the Neder River by night on the ninth day, the "Red Devils" used the words "John Bull" as their password. The "John Bulls" eluded German cordons which ringed their stand, carried their walking wounded with them, left their doctors behind to attend to those more seriously hurt, and effected one of the most plucky withdrawals in military history. They have been told already that their fine stand secured the success of the Allied thrust through Holland, and will have a major part in all of the successes which will flow from that. So this was no lost cause. It was a heroic and successful stand, against long odds.

It was announced from London yesterday that men of other British regiments who later had crossed the Neder River to support the airborne troops were evacuated successfully at the same time. Around the scene of the eight-day engagement upwards of 15,000 German dead remained to mark the ebb and flow of grim fighting that characterized that long and brilliant stand. The "John Bulls" carried their colors high, and today they are the toast of every Allied soldier in the field.

Splendid Service

There are not many professions that have given as much in the war to alleviate human suffering as the physicians and surgeons of this and of other lands. Usually the public takes this for granted, and a doctor is more apt to be criticized for his account than praised for his services and his long-acquired skill. The fact remains that Canadian doctors have made a splendid showing in the war; directly on the battlefield, and no less directly at home where pressure upon their time and strength has been phenomenal. Older men have come from ease and retirement to do a long and a hard day's work. Younger men have thrown up their practices to march with the fighting forces overseas. And each man has been doing two men's work.

The opportunity to say so, even if it is only once a year, comes now when there are gathered in Victoria members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the British Columbia Medical Association. The combined conventions will end today, after a busy and instructive time. There has been about these deliberations something worth while and constructive, like a breath of sanity in a fevered land. Education, say the physicians, is that which will inform society and improve men's lot. Common sense and right living will prolong life, and bring it to its fullest fruition. There are here no hidden miracles, but good, sound sense.

To the members of both professions, and to their correlated callings in many an analogous field, the public owes a sincere debt of gratitude. By and large, these men and women have served humanity selflessly and well. The accounts that are rendered most often have been earned without stinting or self-restraint, and quite often no account is presented at all. The doctor puts that down to goodwill, and goodwill is often the longest item on his books. One trusts that the conventions were successful from every standpoint, and that the delegates will return to their offices encouraged and refreshed—for eight-hour days that turn into sixteen hours without rest or food.

Winter Campaign

Mr. Churchill's reference to the Western Front yesterday left very little room for doubt that the Allies are prepared for the possibility of a winter campaign against Germany, one which would succeed the present drive eastward without cessation or pause. The British Prime Minister's assurance that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 highly-trained fighting men have now been set ashore in Europe shows in advance the magnitude of the task, and the vigorous use made of the few able ports that are already in Allied hands.

The Allied Supreme Command has made good progress in the attack. France, Belgium and a considerable part of Holland have been cleared of the enemy. The approaches to the Siegfried Line are being whittled, and as this direct contact with German soil grows, force and pressure will be applied. Much will depend upon the weather in the next few weeks. Given moderately good weather, the Allies will be able to consolidate all that they have done in brilliant marches through the western plains of Europe. A break in the weather curtailing air support would be unfortunate, but that probability must be taken into account.

Northwestern Europe has a pronounced rainy season. At many points, chalky ground becomes almost impassable with the rains, particularly for transport and heavy guns. To move vast bodies of men with their supplies over this terrain is at any time a difficult task, and in bad weather a galling one. On the other hand, there is nothing in Mr. Churchill's remarks to suggest that pressure on the enemy will be relaxed for one instant. On the contrary, the Germans will like the winter no better than the summer, and they will be fighting then upon their home soil. The transfer of the British Fleet to the Indian Ocean shows the confidence behind the success of the Allied drive in the West.

Canadians in Australia

Canada will only be made ridiculous in the eyes of the world if the arrival of 72 Canadian officers and men in Australia is heralded anywhere in this land as "a contingent," or as "the advance force of a Canadian army." Much as Canadians as a whole would like to see a representative Canadian fighting force in the Pacific, it has yet to be established that Canada can maintain in fighting effectiveness the First Canadian Army which is now afield in Europe. Indeed, a substantial part of that army is composed of British and Polish units not recruited in this land.

All that seems to have transpired at the moment is that some officers and men, technicians in automotive and other Canadian equipment, have been seconded to Australian units in our sister Dominion. A very small party preceded them some months ago, and presumably others will follow. What Canada will do in the Pacific has nowhere yet been said officially, and this country is still waiting to know. The answer should not come from the Canadian High Commissioner at Melbourne, but from the Dominion Cabinet or its representatives in the three armed services.

From the very start of action in the war, thinking people have known that Canada's real defenses in the West were not in the presence of a large standing and idle army in Canada, but out on the frontiers of the battle in the Pacific. With the exception of one ill-fated expedition to Hongkong, and the Kiska landings, Canada has not done very much in the Pacific that the public can see. We concede ship and air patrols along the coastline, and sometimes much farther afield; but no decisive Canadian force has been employed in the Pacific sufficient to influence any of the major fortunes of war. If such a force can now be prepared and put into action, that would be worth doing. It has yet to be demonstrated, however, that it will or can. Meanwhile we should go lightly about boasts without real backing.

Seen in Passing

It will restore a truer perspective on the Western Front in the war to realize, as Mr. Churchill says, that the Allied forces are almost evenly matched, the British Empire and the United States making an almost identical contribution in manpower in the battles which are now taking place. To that is being rapidly added the liberated peoples of Europe, each in their turn. When victory comes, as come it will, the credit will be due to the United Nations as a whole, and that credit will nowhere be divisible. It is a world that is stopping the aggressors, and making very sure that the task will not have to be done again two decades hence.

The Canadians have taken Calais Citadel, with 1,000 German prisoners, and the city itself cannot hold out much longer. That would seem to climax the Canadian drive up the Channel Coast, where town after town fell in rapid succession. It reverses, too, the last stand made by gallant Imperial and French troops who, surrounded in Calais in the Spring of 1940, fought to the last man standing. With Calais and Cap Gris Nez muzzled, the last of the robot bomb platforms will be rooted out, and there will be satisfaction in that.

You Ask Me, Why

You ask me, why, tho' I at ease,
Within this region I subsist,
Whose spirits falter in the mist,
And languish for the purple seas.

It is the land that freemen till,
That sober-tinted Freedom chose,
The land, where, yet, with friends or foes,
A man may speak the thing he will;

A land of settled government,
A land of just and old renown,
Where Freedom slowly broadens down
From precedent to precedent.

Where faction seldom gathers head,
But by degrees to fullness wrought,
The strength of some diffusive thought
Hath time and space to work and spread.

Should banded unions persecute
Opinion, and induce a time
When single thought is civil crime
And individual freedom mute;

Tho' Power should make from land to land
The name of Britain trebly great,
Tho' every channel of the State
Should fill and choke with golden sand—

Yet woe! me from the harbour-mouth
Wild wind! I seek a warmer sky,
And I will see before I die
The palms and temples of the South.

Written in 1833.

The World Today

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER
North American Newspaper Alliance

Two common and intimately related factors stand out in the present situation on all fronts. At no time have air power and supply been so dominant, and at a time when we know so well what we have to face in the plan of German and Every German soldier must realize by now that his battle is to be one to defend his own soil. While in World War I, relying on President Wilson's "peace without victory" appeal, he thought that in yielding he should be granted an easy peace, he now has had the Allies' repeated warning that he is in for a tough peace.

This helps to account for his present desperate defence of the Siegfried Line. It delays the inevitable German collapse when he cannot escape measuring by experience how hopelessly all the odds are against him.

An example of how supreme we are in air power is the 2,000 bombers striking one day at the German synthetic oil plants in the Rhine industrial region, while the next day they may strike at German lines of communication. Meanwhile, they also continue their support of the attacks of the ground forces, which call for still more air support. Everybody from command to private, combat and supply, wants to see more bombers and fighters and transport planes at their service.

Transport planes not only tow gliders and fly paratroopers, whom they reinforce and supply, they also hasten the wounded to base hospitals much faster than ambulances. They can fill in gaps in a matter of hours where otherwise it would take days when, in the crisis of battle, there is a sudden shortage of gasoline or some kind of ammunition. They can supplement rail and truck transport in hurry demands for other vital essentials.

When we have superior numbers of ground as well as air forces, the pressure is to get the ground forces set with supplies the sooner to break desperate German resistance before it gets set to prolong the ordeal.

JAPAN NEXT

Where land-based planes are doing the air job in Europe it has been the carrier planes which have been doing it in the Pacific—mainly in the overwhelming score the Halsey-Mitchell combination has made from August 30 to September 21, culminating in the raid on Manila.

This is further warning to Japan of what is coming to her. As a forecast of her strategy of ultimate defence there is no overlooking the successful advance of her army in China. Enough material to check this cannot come from Chinese home production, even with the aid of Donald Nelson's advice. Nor can enough be sent in over the Himalayan hump by the transport planes we can now spare from the Western Front. Enough can be sent in only by reopening the Burma Road.

The following predictions were made by Prof. Raymond H. Wheeler, University of Kansas, after a scientific study of cycles in world history: More wars, with the possibility of another world war in 1950, civil wars and rebellions in totalitarian countries, continuation of capitalism, rugged individualism, bitter strikes and labor troubles, race riots, vigilante committees, less bureaucracy, cutthroat business competition, upsurge of democracy, revision of education systems, growing dominance of Asia in world affairs, a League of Nations, but no world state, and beginning of a new golden age around 2000. The preserving sugar allowance in the State of Washington is 35 pounds per person. Canadians, with their small allowance, have been urged by the government to can more fruit without sugar. Many housewives claim there is no saving because the fruit takes just as much sugar as in the ordinary way.

Hobo slang is picturesque. For instance: "After riding the rods for two days, the jockey and the prusson started counting ties until a cinder bull chased them, and they made a Charlie Paddock for the next burg, where they battered the drag for scuff Jack and a flop in a flea house. Translation: "After stealing a ride under a box car for two days, the tramp and the boy whom he had trained to beg and steal started walking along the tracks, until a railroad policeman chased them and they made a quick run to the nearest town where they begged on the street for money for food and a bed in a cheap hotel."

The University of Washington has a department of police science offering courses leading to the degree of bachelor of science. Among subjects studied are anthropology, sociology, zoology, physiology, biology, psychology, penology and criminology.

ICE ARENA

Sir,—I am an old woman and can never skate again, but used to go and sit in the cold arena just to watch youth enjoy life, and it did my heart good.

We owe all that to the courage and energy of Mr. Olson. I watched him work to get a good sheet of ice, which he did after weeks of trouble with his equipment. I hope that if we get a publicly-owned arena, we will find some one who will put their energy into it the way he did.

As Mr. Olson started this and made a success of it, why can't he continue, and if he makes something out of it he certainly deserves it.

AN EXPLANATION

Sir,—My attention has just been called to an article published in your issue of September 24 under the heading "Not Embarrassed at Drafted Soldiers—Duncan Legion Head Deprecates Report" and quoting me as "president of the Cowichan Branch of the Canadian Legion."

I am not the president and have no more authority to speak for the Cowichan Branch or any other branch of the Canadian Legion than any other legionary.

When I was told of the brutal assault upon Mr. De Bock and his son, I was also told that the police did not seem to be doing anything about it and had "washed their hands of the whole thing." And I was myself sufficiently "enraged" to go to the police and find out at first hand what was being done.

Having found that the police had been and still were working very hard on the matter, I was quite willing, when your reporter telephoned me, to give him the facts I had obtained from the police and tell him why no charge had been laid against anybody.

But I certainly did not tell your reporter that I spoke for the Canadian Legion in any capacity whatsoever, and although I did answer his question whether the Legion was in the negative, I certainly did not say, as your article implies, that the Legion was not going to take any action.

As the heading of your article is incorrect and the general effect of the article gives a misleading impression of the attitude towards the whole "zombie" problem of both the Cowichan Branch of the Canadian Legion and myself, I must ask that you give in this letter at least as much prominence as was given to the article of which I complain.

P. R. LEIGHTON,
P.O. Box 398, Duncan, B.C., September 28, 1944.

Editor's Note: On September 16 The Daily Colonist published its account in all good faith, unaware that there had been any misunderstanding over the telephone. On September 24 the paper, after direct inquiries on the spot, published a much fuller account, which none has since challenged.

tions five miles west. Heavy fighting raged at Bimmet, three miles northeast of Nijmegen, where S.S. troops were being backed toward the Rhine.

Fifty miles southwest of Nijmegen, Canadian and British troops exerting pressure on the threatened 200,000 Germans from the south enlarged their bridgehead over the Antwerp-Turnhout Canal west of Turnhout. There also was considerable fighting at a second bridgehead at St. Leonard, west of Turnhout.

Along the French coast, First Canadian Army men broke across part of the flood lands protecting the Channel port of Calais, and fought into the limits of the port itself, seizing six of the 14-inch guns with which the Germans have been firing on Dover across the straits.

Taking 1,000 more prisoners, they captured the Calais Citadel where in 1940 the British Army held off the Germans to make the Dunkerque evacuation possible.

The Berlin radio said 2,500,000 soldiers were facing each other on the front from Arnhem southwest to the Swiss border "in the greatest battle of material in the world's history."

"Biggest gains were south of Nijmegen, where British troops in a 19-mile advance blotted out the last threat to The Netherlands corridor in that area. They seized positions along the Maas from Cuyk to Vierlingsbeek, from 11 to 14 miles southwest of the fortress of Kleve.

NO NEWS FROM REICHSWALD FOREST

There was no news from the operations inside the Reichswald Forest, within seven miles of Kleve.

There was evidence of German withdrawal west of this fighting where Supreme Headquarters reported "major going" in the capture of the villages of Heesch and Nistelrode, which widened the corridor to from 35 to 18 miles south of Nijmegen.

The Germans said more Allied airborne troops had been landed at The Netherlands road centre of Hertogenbosch, ten miles west of these newly-captured villages.

But the bitterness of enemy resistance all along the front underscored the words of Prime Minister Churchill, who told the House of Commons that the war might well stretch through the winter into 1945.

The United States First Army kept up the pressure by fighting all the way through the pillbox-studded Hurtgen Forest southeast of Aachen to within 27 miles of the big German Rhineland industrial city of Cologne.

On the south the United States Third Army crushed three heavy counter-attacks near Metz and east of Nancy, but was driven from a bridge before most-ringed Fort Donjon, guarding Metz' western approaches along the Moselle River.

The United States Seventh Army on the extreme southern end of the front slugged forward toward Belfort, taking positions along an arc ten to 18 miles from that gateway to the Upper Rhine.

Gen. Eisenhower, in his first proclamation to the German people, told them in a broadcast, "We come as conquerors, not as oppressors," and said the Allies would "obliterate Nazism and German militarism."

At the outbreak of hostilities he was appointed rear admiral in command of the 12th Cruiser Squadron, then was recalled to deal with the magnetic mine menace, and later took charge of small craft evacuating Britain's army from Dunkerque. While in command of the 1st Cruiser Squadron, Sir Frederic was in the Bismarck action, aboard H.M.S. London.

Germans Praise Arnhem Fighters

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The German Transocean News Agency paid high tribute today to the British "Lost Division" of Arnhem, saying its members "fought like lions," and as the end neared "resisted with knives and pistols."

Transocean's correspondent Guenther Weber, said in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, "I spoke to German officers and men who have been in the fighting lasting for 250 hours. They said: 'The British airborne soldiers were the highest qualified men we have met during the entire invasion campaign. They fought like lions against the ever tightening ring.'"

Weber said the British Division commander surrendered "only after being seriously wounded at close quarters."

GENERAL ESCAPES IN FEW HOURS

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The War Office disclosed that the Germans had captured the general commanding the British "Red Devils" in the Arnhem pocket, but he escaped. Maj.-Gen. R. E. Urquhart, of the British First Airborne Division, "is believed to have been in enemy hands a short time but subsequently escaped and now is safe," the announcement said.

United Nations to Continue Shipping Pools After War

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP)—Trade Minister MacKinnon today announced the signing in London of an agreement between United Nations, including Canada, providing for continued collaboration in the use of merchant shipping for six months after the war.

Under new machinery provided for in the agreement, shipping control bodies will be set up when "general hostilities" in Europe end. They will implement principles which will remain in effect until six months after the suspension of hostilities in Europe or the Far East, whichever is the later, unless terminated or modified earlier by unanimous agreement.

Shipping authorities interpreted the agreement as insuring that disorganization in international shipping would be prevented when peace came. Practically all United Nations' seagoing vessels now are under Government control and are part of a shipping pool employed as war needs dictate.

The central authority under the new organization will consist of a united maritime council, with representation from each contracting Government, and a united maritime executive board, with representatives of the United Kingdom, United States, The Netherlands and Norway, chosen because of their large experience in normal international shipping. Governments not represented on the executive will have associated members who will be consulted.

Canadian officials said that for security reasons the number of Canadian ships now in war service could not be given but it was "substantial."

Governments will continue to devote their shipping resources to the wartime needs of the United Nations until the war in the Far East is won.

Mr. MacKinnon said all Canadian sea-going ships except certain coasters and tugs are owned by the Government.

After the European war ends, most existing agreements with the British and United States war shipping authorities for the use of other United Nations ships will terminate, but the need for vessels will continue heavy. This made necessary the new agreement, which has been signed by the Governments of Belgium, Canada, Greece, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, United Kingdom and the United States.

The French Committee of National Liberation has signified that all French shipping remains at the disposal of the United Nations.

The Soviet Government and other interested United Nations have been kept informed.

Willows Betting Sets New Record

Betting in the recent race meet at Willows Park reached an all-time high for the period of the meet. Official figures released yesterday showed that bets for the two weeks, under the pari-mutuel system, totalled $1,022,323. Years ago when a four-week meet was held the total exceeded $1,000,000, but the last meet was the first in which this figure was attained in two weeks. It exceeded last year's total by $97,533.

Pari-mutuel betting at Vancouver tracks in a succession of meets from July 1 to September 4 reached $5,146,494, compared with $4,880,906 last year, an increase of $265,588.

Total for Vancouver and Victoria tracks was $6,168,817, an increase of $562,021.

Under the Amusements Tax Act the Provincial Government receives 7 per cent of pari-mutuel bets. British Columbia will therefore receive out of the total bet this year $431,817.19. Last year the 7 per cent tax amounted to $339,475.72.

In addition the Government receives 10 per cent of gate receipts under the same Act.

Voices Criticism of Air Training Plan

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 28 (CP)—Pit. Lieut. Frank Fredrickson, the former hockey ace, in a service club address here yesterday criticized the Royal Canadian Air Force's student training programme and charged that millions of dollars were being poured into projects of questionable value.

Fredrickson, who was coach of the air force's team in the Pacific Coast Senior Hockey League last season, expects his discharge from the service shortly.

Students halfway through combat courses were transferred to other duties including shovelling coal and digging ditches after some training stations were closed, he said.

Fredrickson asserted the Dominion Government still is taking delivery of such obsolete types of planes as Ansons, Canoes and Catalinas.

Millions of dollars have been poured into airdromes in British Columbia, although such projects were of questionable value because of the war developments in the Pacific, he said.

The need for real leaders to handle rehabilitation of persons leaving the services was emphasized by Fredrickson.

Vancouver Forecast

Light to moderate winds. Overcast with light rain in early morning changing to showers later. Scattered showers in the afternoon, and partly cloudy in the evening. Slightly cooler.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are advised that the fixed span of the Kitsilano Bridge, False Creek, will be removed and replaced to allow a vessel to pass out into English Bay. The lifting spans will be placed under at 11:00 hours, Saturday, until 22:30 hours of the same day, when the passage should be clear again.

Mariners should use extreme caution in this vicinity during the above-mentioned times and no tow of logs or scows should obstruct in any way or hinder the passage of the large vessel.

The diaphone located at William Head is out of commission and will be replaced as soon as possible.

The red, wooden spar buoy marking the southern extremity of Middle Bank, Nanaimo Harbor, is reported missing. This will be replaced as soon as possible.

Many Experiences

Ldg. Seaman Brian Hanson

Who is at present serving aboard H.M.C.S. Prince Robert. He is a native of Port Alberni and has more than five years' service to his credit with the R.C.N.

His prewar athletic activities, thinks Ldg. Hanson, were primarily responsible for bringing him safely through two "dunkings" he experienced during the early days of the war.

He was an English rugby enthusiast and played both baseball and basketball in Victoria; also taking the 160-pound boxing title at

H.M.C.S. Esquimalt when only 17 years of age.

Hanson's sports background first came to his rescue aboard H.M.C.S. Fraser, when that ship was sunk off Bordeaux. He was sleeping below, well under the water line, and awakened to find water flowing in from a gaping hole in the side of the ship.

There was not much time to do anything else, he recalled grimly, so he just "swam through the hole." Fully clothed, he had to keep himself afloat for 30 minutes before rescuers arrived.

He learned a lesson from his vivid recollection of those long minutes he spent keeping afloat in the Channel. When at sea, he is never more than six feet from his life jacket.

"I learned the hard way the first time. Never again," he said.

His father is Major H. A. Hanson, R.C.A.S.C., stationed at Port Colborne, Winnipeg. His mother resides at Port Alberni, and his wife lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Downey, 343 Michigan Street.

A leading torpedo operator, Ldg. Hanson's fine record has earned him a chance to try for his commission.

Army Enlistments

Recent army enlistments from Victoria and district were Lewis T. Ramann, 121 Menzies Street; David H. Molson, 1663 Rockland Avenue; George H. Jackson, 101 Sims Avenue; Paul Leung, 1903 Blanshard Street; Joseph H. W. Muldrew, 1221 Michigan Street; Duck W. Fong, 538 Fisgard Street; Edward S. Tomlin, 1850 Woodley Road; Paul Chan, 1492 Government Street; Toy Chan, 1054 Balmoral Road; Kam F. Cheng, 546 Cormorant Street; Ian W. Earnshaw, 1278 Park Terrace; Nen W. Chow, 730 Pegibroke Street; Anthony G. Peets, 881 Island Road; Chos. S. Lowe, 1818 Government Street, and Dick Lam, 1021 Pandora Avenue.

There were also 11 Up-Island enlistments, and four men from local "H.D." units who went active.

There was one C.W.A.C. recruit, Leola R. Williams, Shawigan Lake.

R.C.A.F. Casualties

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. tonight issued its 1,000th casualty list of the war, covering an unspecified war period—probably up to a month ago. The list gave no total casualties suffered since war started, but a recent official compilation placed casualties at 15,961 on July 31.

This total compared with 33,239 for the army and 1,838 for the navy and was made up of 9,848 dead, 7,127 missing, prisoners and interned and 896 wounded. The army has issued 625 casualty lists and the navy 281.

In First Great War Canadian dead and missing in the Royal Naval Air Service, the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Air Force—formed in the last months of the war—totalled 1,160, or 13.7 per cent of the Empire air casualty total.

Approximately 23,000 Canadians served in the British air services in the last war. The present strength of the R.C.A.F. is 100,000 men and 14,000 women.

Englishwoman Enjoys A Free Day Shopping

Canada is a land of plenty, a fascinating place for travel, Miss R. Nash, personal secretary to Vice-Admiral Sir Frederic Wake-Walker, Third Sea Lord of the British Navy, said Thursday on her arrival in Victoria. Whisked across the Dominion on a fast and busy inspection tour, Miss Nash was happy to go shopping.

"I bought lipstick and nail varnish. At home we can't get nail varnish at all and lipstick shades are few," she said. "I enjoyed going through the shops and seeing all the lovely things you have." But the charming Englishwoman did not make extensive purchases because "It would not be right." Only a few clothes to take on the meagre allowance in England, clothes that she could wear right away. There will be no hoarding.

Bliss and pretty, Miss Nash wore a grey plaid suit with black accessories. Her deep gold hair was brushed smoothly in a semi-page-boy style.

She showed keen interest in the technical details of the sleek frigates which the naval party inspected, especially in the roomy galley with the stainless steel finish.

Norman Yarrow, who conducted the tour, explained that while the steel was expensive it was the most practical metal. Two chefs and two helpers could prepare the meals for the crew in the efficient kitchen. Lights throughout the ship were shaded with attractive ivory plastic shades, and everywhere there was shiny cream paint.

Miss Nash complimented the women who put in the intricate wiring under supervision of senior electricians. She was amazed at the fine work they did. "I think it is very wonderful that Canada has done so much though remote from the actual war."

Her biggest thrill was christening of H.M.S. Beattyhead recently. "I gave a good going and broke the bottle squarely on her. I want her to have good luck," she related.

Miss F. Synder Speaks at Rally

Pickling Pointers Come From Experimental Kitchen

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section,
Dominion Dept. of Agriculture

Behind the imposing stone facade a mounthe stands guard; long corridors honeycombed with offices branch off the central hall of this dignified Federal Government building. Nothing here to bring thoughts of home to the visitor on government business.

And yet... suddenly the visitor finds himself reminded of home. Strange... the tantalizing, spicy aroma is stronger now. Surely someone is making pickles! Yes... someone is making pickles! Downstairs in Canada's experimental kitchen, home economists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are testing and retesting innumerable varieties of pickles.

Pickling pointers and a few of the outstandingly good recipes based on recent experimental work are given today.

PICKLING POINTERS
Start with fresh, prime-quality vegetables or fruits; use ingredients called for in the recipe and follow directions accurately.

Use a good quality pickling vinegar. If the vinegar is weak and poor in quality, pickles will be greyish in color, cloudy and may not keep.

Use common table or refined dairy salt for pickling. Salt treated to make it free-running in damp weather makes a cloudy brine; iodized salt is not recommended for pickling.

Whole spices give better color and flavor than ground spices. Spices should be tied in a cheesecloth bag, cooked with the vinegar and then removed. The bag should be large enough to allow the vinegar to boil through the spices and get the flavor out.

Don't let utensils of iron, copper or zinc come in contact with pickles; vinegar and salt react in an unpleasant way with these metals.

Don't be in too much of a hurry to taste pickles. Almost all pickles need time to mellow and will not be at their best for several weeks after making.

Pickles, like other preserved foods, like to be stored in a cool, dark, dry place.

FRUIT TAMALE

8 large or 12 medium-sized ripe tomatoes (3 lbs.)
3 peaches (1½ cups, chopped)
2 pears (1½ cups, chopped)
3 apples (2 cups, chopped)
3 medium onions (1½ cups, chopped)

1 cup celery, chopped
1 small hot pepper (2 tablespoons, chopped) or 8 small dried chili peppers
2 tablespoons whole, mixed pickling spices
1 cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup pickling vinegar

Blanch, peel and chop tomatoes and peaches. Peel, core and chop pears and apples. Peel and chop onions; chop celery. Remove stem and seeds from pepper and cut very finely, using scissors. The spices (including dried chili peppers when used) loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Add spice bag, sugar and salt to vinegar, bring to boiling point and boil for 45 minutes or until pickle has thickened. Remove spice bag; pack pickles in hot, sterilized jars and seal. Yield about 4 pints.

GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

30 medium-sized green tomatoes (7½ lbs.)
6 large onions
½ cup salt
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon peppercorns
½ lemon (optional)
2 sweet red peppers
2½ cups brown sugar
2 cups vinegar

Slice tomatoes and onions thinly and arrange in alternate layers with the salt. Let stand overnight in a crock or enamel vessel. In the morning drain thoroughly, rinse in cold water and drain well again. The all spices loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Slice lemon thinly; remove stem and seeds from peppers and cut in thin strips. Add spice bag to vinegar, bring to boiling point and add tomatoes, onions and peppers. Cook for ½ hour, stirring gently to prevent sticking.

Special Display Cakes and Succulents, Flower Show, Crystal Garden, Friday and Saturday.

Remove spice bag and pack pickles in hot-sterilized jars; seal. Yield about 8 pints.

MUSTARD PICKLES

3 quarts pickling cucumbers
1 medium cauliflower
1 quart pickling onions
2 sweet red peppers

4 quarts water
½ cup flour
1½ cups mustard
1 tablespoon turmeric
2½ cups sugar
2½ quarts vinegar

Peel onions and cut other vegetables into desired sizes. Make a brine of salt and water, pour over vegetables and let stand overnight. In the morning, drain. Make a paste of flour, mustard, turmeric, sugar and a little vinegar. Add remaining vinegar, stirring until well blended. Bring to boiling point, stirring constantly until the sauce is slightly thickened. Cook 10 minutes.

Add prepared vegetables, bring to boiling point and pack in hot, sterilized jars; seal. Yield about 4½ quarts.

GREEN TOMATO RELISH

30 medium-sized green tomatoes (7½ lbs.)
½ cup salt
½ medium cabbage
3 sweet red peppers
3 medium onions
8½ cups vinegar
2 cups sugar

1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon mustard seed
½ tablespoon whole cloves
Put tomatoes through food chopper, using coarse blade. Combine with salt and let drain overnight in a cheesecloth bag. In the morning put cabbage, peppers and onions through food chopper. Combine vegetables, sugar, vinegar and add spices. Use loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Cook over low heat until vegetables are tender, about 20 minutes. Remove spice bag; pack pickles in hot sterilized jars; seal. Yield 6 to 7 pints.

Recipe of The Week

Now that Fall is officially here and the weather is cooler, housewives are looking through old and new recipes for pickles and relishes. Here are three recommended by the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa.

SOUP MIXED PICKLES

Onions, cucumber, cauliflower and green tomato. These vegetables may be used separately or mixed. Wash and prepare three quarts vegetables. Make a brine, using two quarts of boiling water and one cup salt, pour over vegetables and let stand two days. Drain and cover with more brine. Let stand two days and drain again. Pack vegetables in hot jars and cover with the following hot mixture. Seal.

Two quarts vinegar, 2 chili peppers (dried red), 1 tablespoon whole spice, ½ cup sugar, 1 stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon mace.

The spices in a cheesecloth bag and boil in vinegar for five minutes. Sweet pickled fruit.

Peaches, pears, sweet apples, crab apples, watermelon rind, etc.

Four quarts prepared fruit, 1 cup water, 1 ounce whole cloves, 1 pint vinegar, 1-ounce stick cinnamon, 4 cups sugar.

Boil the sugar, vinegar, water and spices for 20 minutes. Dip peaches in boiling water and rub off the fur, but do not peel; pare apples and pears. Crab apples may be pickled with the skins and stems on. Put in syrup and cook until soft, cooking a quarter of the fruit at a time. Pack in jars, cover with hot liquid. Seal.

CHILI SAUCE AND COCKTAIL FROM ONE RECIPE

Eighteen large tomatoes, 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 onions, 3 sweet red peppers, ½ cup vinegar, 1 small head celery, 3 sweet green peppers.

Boil all together 20 minutes, then turn into a colander. Strain without stirring. Return juices to kettle and boil 5 minutes. To the solid pulp add 1 cup vinegar and a small piece ginger, 8 cloves and 1 stick cinnamon (spices in muslin bag). Boil until thick. Pour into hot jars. Seal. Yield about 3 pints chili sauce and 3 pints juice.

A Good Lunch Is Important

Napoleon knew this much, that an army can't march on an empty stomach. Today we know that it isn't enough just to fill stomachs, the kind is just as important as the amount of food that goes into them. The kinds of food that make a good lunch are the same for everyone, though the quantity varies. A farmer needs more food at noon than a businessman, a hunky 15-year-old more than his teacher.

The Nutrition Division, Ottawa, lists in three groups the foods that should be eaten in every lunch, to help people do a good job at work and have fun at play. They are:

Group 1. Meat, fish, eggs, cheese or beans, in sandwiches, salad or a plate lunch.

Group 2. A vegetable (other than potato) or a fruit—both are best. Take potatoes, too, if you like.

Group 3. Milk as a beverage, cream soup or dessert.

The Nutrition Division rates a lunch "good" when it includes food from each group. "Fair" if only two groups are included, and "poor" if only one or none is present.

For the school-noon-ahead with its hard work and its fun, a "good" lunch every day is a goal worth shooting at.

Value Is Found in Whole Grain Cereal

All surveys of eating habits made in British Columbia seem to point to the fact that people in this Province don't know a bargain when they see it.

They see it. Whole grain cereal products are cheap and plentiful, yet they are often passed by for more expensive puffed cereal foods and white bread made from highly refined white flour.

Suppose you went to the grocers tomorrow and saw a sign over the bread display that read:

SPECIAL TODAY
Extra Vitamin B, Calcium and Iron FREE with every loaf!

could you resist a bargain like that? Yet that very bargain is offered, though not advertised, every day in every store where whole grain bread is sold alongside white. It is also sold where white bread made with Canada Approved Flour is found.

The same bargain can be picked up among the breakfast cereals too, for whole grain cereals provide those extra food elements. The great Samuel Johnson evidently had a poor opinion of oatmeal porridge.

"Oats," he said, "we feed to horses in England, but in Scotland they support the people." And Boswell retorted, "Yes, but where can you find such men as in Scotland?"

Though connoisseurs of food, Johnson and Boswell were ignorant about nutrition and Johnson frequently suffered from illness due to faulty diets. Nevertheless Boswell was close to the mark when he attributed the sturdiness of the Scots to their liberal use of oats. Not only oats, but any cereal manufactured from the whole grain is a valuable food.

For this reason, the Nutrition Division in Ottawa recommend that each member of every Canadian family receive one serving a day of some whole grain cereal, plus four to six slices of whole grain or Canada Approved white bread per day.

MUSLIN TAKES A BOW

Are you handy with needle and thread? Here's a tip borrowed from New York's smartest capper girls. Next time you plan a house coat or chic cotton frock, buy unbleached muslin. Take it home and before you make it up dye it any color you like. Not only is the unbleached muslin very inexpensive, it is easy to work with and can be washed countless times in gentle, fine-fabric suds and emerge bright and fresh as ever.

Now that Fall is officially here and the weather is cooler, housewives are looking through old and new recipes for pickles and relishes. Here are three recommended by the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa.

SOUP MIXED PICKLES

Onions, cucumber, cauliflower and green tomato. These vegetables may be used separately or mixed. Wash and prepare three quarts vegetables. Make a brine, using two quarts of boiling water and one cup salt, pour over vegetables and let stand two days. Drain and cover with more brine. Let stand two days and drain again. Pack vegetables in hot jars and cover with the following hot mixture. Seal.

Two quarts vinegar, 2 chili peppers (dried red), 1 tablespoon whole spice, ½ cup sugar, 1 stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon mace.

The spices in a cheesecloth bag and boil in vinegar for five minutes. Sweet pickled fruit.

Peaches, pears, sweet apples, crab apples, watermelon rind, etc.

Four quarts prepared fruit, 1 cup water, 1 ounce whole cloves, 1 pint vinegar, 1-ounce stick cinnamon, 4 cups sugar.

Boil the sugar, vinegar, water and spices for 20 minutes. Dip peaches in boiling water and rub off the fur, but do not peel; pare apples and pears. Crab apples may be pickled with the skins and stems on. Put in syrup and cook until soft, cooking a quarter of the fruit at a time. Pack in jars, cover with hot liquid. Seal.

Doctors Favor Health Scheme

Members of the Canadian Medical Association were on record as subscribing to the principle of a national health insurance scheme, with various stipulations, but were not in favor of state medicine, according to the Medical Association president.

who last night was the main speaker at a public meeting in Metropolitan United Church.

The association approved of a national health plan provided it secured the development and provision of the highest standards of health services, both preventative and curative, Dr. McPhedran stated.

Other stipulations included that facilities for practitioners to take post-graduate courses at stated intervals be encouraged and provided, and assurance that the whole medical profession was not converted completely into a state controlled and salaried service.

State medicine was opposed by the association, Dr. McPhedran continued, because members believed that such a system would not attract a sufficient number of young men and women to enter upon the study of medicine, and that it was not in the public interest that the state invade the professional aspect of the patient-doctor relationship, which included free choice of a doctor by the patient.

Finally, the speaker said, neither the public nor the medical profession would submit to the irritating, red tape and bureaucratic control inevitable in such a system.

The success of any health insurance plan would fail, he continued, unless social security, nutrition, security against fear and want, and educational facilities were improved and extended. This action must precede, or accompany, any health plan.

SAYS HEALTH SCHEME WOULD BE COSTLY

Speaking of the cost of a national health plan, described as great, Dr. McPhedran said such a plan would cost money, but that money alone would not purchase health. There was no medical Utopia. Work and co-operation on the part of the giving and those receiving services, would be essential if any scheme of that nature was to succeed, he added.

He did not want any scheme to be in the control of any party or group, or political commission. Matters of professional detail should be administered by committees representative of the professional groups concerned, he said.

Second speaker on the programme was Dr. William Wagner, associate professor of pathology, University of Toronto. Choosing as his topic "The Attack on the Cancer Problem," he told the large audience steps that had been taken in the curing of the disease. Dr. Wagner said more people were dying of cancer now because more individuals lived to the age where cancer struck.

Lumps in the chest, sores around the mouth, coughs, and loss of appetite, were all signs that might be symptoms of cancer, he said. Speaking of the cure of the dreaded disease, the speaker said cancer was exceptionally easy to cure, but only if it was detected before spreading to numerous parts of the body. For more advanced cases of the disease, he added, only surgery or radiation, or a combination of both, would be effective cures.

Third, and final speaker, was Dr.

ment of bacteriology and preventive medicine at the University of British Columbia. He told of some of the latest ideas in the health programme of the country. Recalling epidemics of 50 years past, and the disastrous effect on civilization, he compared the medical conditions of those days with modern times, pointing out the great advances in that field which had been made over a comparatively short period of time.

Official Picture Shown to Clubmen

"The Nazis Strike," a documentary film produced by National Film Board from Allied Nations material and captured German film, was shown to the Kinmen Club last night at the Empress Hotel. C. W. Marshall, Victoria representative of the board, ran the film and an industrial circuit picture, "Partners in Production." Mr. Marshall was introduced by Gordon Grant.

Dramatic and historical, the first film showed events leading up to the entry of Great Britain into the war with flashbacks to old conquerors and an explanation of the German infant science of geopolitics.

George Fatt, president, conducted a business meeting earlier in the evening at which E. Saunders, reporting on the Milk for Britain Fund, said $473 in donations had been received during the past fortnight, including the monthly $300 from Yarrows Ltd., $250 from the Senior Golf Association, $10 from the Shirley W.A. and $15 from a citizen.

Larry Wright reported he had been notified that for their part in the recent Quis Kids programme, clubmen were entitled to a new radio set as soon as civilian production was resumed. They may take a $50 bond if preferred. Action on the offer will be decided at a later meeting.

The club voted to send 300 cigarettes monthly to all members now serving overseas, and Maurice O'Connor reported the plans for Halloween were progressing. Three members, including the president, attended the Parkville Charter night dinner held recently at the Malaspina Hotel, Nanaimo.

Presents Mobile Van

A mobile surgical van, for the past several years the property of District Council of the Canadian Legion, was officially presented to the Canadian Red Cross yesterday afternoon by Robert Knight.

Of the opinion that need for such a van is past, Mr. Knight said the vehicle will be remodeled and made into a mobile kitchen to be used by the Red Cross as a traveling classroom where subjects dealing with nutrition will be taught. The van is to be sent to a Red Cross centre in Vancouver.

The van has been used by Red Cross and civil defence groups in the city.

Canadians in Calais Port

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY, Sept. 28 (CP)—Western Canada infantrymen today captured the Calais Citadel, where British troops in their historic "last stand" in the dark days of 1940 held off the Germans to make the Dunkerque evacuation possible, and fought their way up to a moat at the southern end of the town.

The Canadians crossed right in on Calais from the west, southwest and south as a force of Ontario troops swung around the Channel city to east, where the enemy was entrenched behind machine-gun emplacements.

Flying in bright weather, tactical air force fighter-bombers aided the ground forces and R.A.F. heavy Lancasters and Halifaxes unloaded another big weight of explosives on the beleaguered German garrison, to make more than 7,000 tons hurled on this little spot in the last four days.

The citadel, which sits on the edge of the old northern part of the town, was attacked by troops who worked along a coast road leading east into the harbor area.

While the fight for the citadel was going on, another western force met strong resistance as the troops approached the canal line running north and south at the edge of Calais.

Simultaneously other western infantry fought from the southern factory area into a triangle formed by intersecting railway lines and a wide canal skirting the eastern side of the port.

These troops drove right to the line of the moat surrounding Calais between factories and gas works at the southern end of the town which they found the Germans occupying in strength.

Several thousand enemy troops are believed to be in the town proper. The Germans are well armed and have the advantage of the moat as well as a maze of canals and wide basins in the dock area lying in the path of the Canadians.

McNaughton

very regretfully authorize retirement in due course, with pre-retirement leave in the interim."

Speaking of the promotion, Col. Ralston said he was sure Canada would not want the veteran army commander to leave the army without some distinction to mark this country's recognition of his fidelity and his superb accomplishments as a military leader.

Gen. McNaughton wrote Col. Ralston that he had remained in the army in order to be available should any situation develop in which his services might be required. He now was "entirely fit again."

Then he wrote: "We have not always been of the same opinion as to the course to be followed, but I have never doubted your sincerity of purpose, nor, I believe, have you doubted mine. Any differences of view belong to the past."

Colonel Ralston, speaking of the general's promotion, wrote: "Canada will be forever grateful for your inspiring efforts in training and planning and striving unspareingly to make this amazing Canadian Army progress possible. 'As you say, we have not always seen eye to eye as to the course to be followed, but I fully agree with you that any differences of view relate to the past."

CIVILIAN POST NEXT QUESTION

General McNaughton—attending a dinner party at the home of Sir Patrick Duff, deputy high commissioner for the United Kingdom, spoke to return to important duties in Britain—said he had no comment to make regarding his future. This left unanswered a question that has created considerable speculation leave of absence through illness on December 26. That question concerns what civilian post he will fill.

If he is not returning to the Research Council, which still lists him on official records as "president, on leave to the army," the speculation is that he may be going to:

1. An executive post with United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

2. The presidency of the University of Manitoba.

3. The Lieutenant-Governorship of his native Province of Saskatchewan.

4. To a high Canadian demobilization post.

At the end of his original leave on June 31, he was granted an extension to September 30. But in the meantime his homecoming had stirred parliamentary debate and newspaper comment.

Arriving back in Canada in February, he told newsmen that a general impression seemed to have got about that he was a "confirmed cripple." He had a severe attack of influenza and this had been followed by a low blood pressure condition. Physicians told him there was nothing organically wrong with him and after a period of rest he would be "as good as new."

While he rested at the Seignior Club, Prime Minister Mackenzie King halted a debate in the Commons on the general's leave by calling Opposition party leaders to see documents which he said were of "great concern" not only to Canada, but to other United Nations.

Previous to that Colonel Ralston had produced in the Commons a medical report on the general which indicated he had developed a condition of health that made it extremely inadvisable for him to continue his onerous duties. Colonel Ralston also read a letter in which General McNaughton said "experience of the last few days has shown me conclusively that I have not the strength left to look after the army properly," and added later:

"I think the general interest requires that someone else should now take charge, and that I must and will accept the situation with the best grace I can muster."

The retirement of the parent and designer of Canada's modern and mechanized army. He took the first contingent of the 1st Division overseas in December, 1939, and saw it grow in strength to buttress Britain's flagging defences after Dunkerque, to learn the lessons of Dieppe for future invaders, to strike in the Mediterranean and, finally, to invade France itself with the status of an army.

CHURCHILL SPEECH PRAISED

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Friday) (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill's dampening of over-optimism for a quick victory was welcomed by the London press today and many of the newspapers found "the great merit" of his speech before the House of Commons was the statement that Britain's war effort against Germany almost equals that of the United States.

Higher Court To Hear Case

Pte. Albert Puhl, R.C.A.F.C., Work Point Barracks, charged with manslaughter following the death of Charles Ibbotson, 30, on the East Saanich Road on September 6, was committed for trial at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing yesterday in District Court.

Ibbotson was struck and killed as he was crossing the East Saanich Road, one mile north of Elk Lake, by an army jeep allegedly driven by the accused.

Three witnesses testified that they saw an army jeep proceeding towards Royal Oak at an excessive speed on the morning of the fatality, but did not identify the driver.

Francis Shore, a mechanic, said he took the vehicle out on Douglas Street and found the broken axle factory on September 18. Tests

Canadian Shipyards Build 21 Floating Workshops

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP)—Canadian shipyards are engaged on orders for 21 "floating workshops," seven fleet visualizing vessels and a number of supply and combat ships for the British Navy, preparing for large-scale operations in the Pacific.

At supply workshops which closed this today in commenting on Prime Minister Churchill's statement to the British Commons that a "substantial portion" of the navy's supply ships were being built in Canada.

The official said that the vessels were a modification of the "Fort" class 10,000-ton freighter. Of the 21 maintenance ships, the keels of seven were laid in Vancouver yards by August 31 and the first three will be launched by October 1. The remainder also will be turned out of Vancouver yards.

CANBERRA, Sept. 29 (CP)—The Australian Government proposes an early opening of the Trans-Pacific Military Air Service, operated by Australian, New Zealand, Canadian and British air forces, Air Minister A. S. Drakeford told the House of Representatives today.

This system, using military transport aircraft, would pave the way for commercial service and at an appropriate time between Australia and the United States and Canada, he added.

NO. 246—EIGHTY-SIXTH YEAR

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1944

Clancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S ROUNDUP

Bill Stern, noted sports announcer, who hundreds if not thousands of Victorians listen to once a week when he puts on that popular programme over the network and winds up by dramatizing some great athletic event of the past, stated the other evening that if the St. Louis Browns didn't capture the American League pennant one of the biggest baseball scandals in the history of the game would be broken to the public. Just what Bill was getting at nobody seems to know, but he said it would be even more scandalous than the "Black Sox" episode back in 1919 when Chicago threw the world series to the Cincinnati Reds, the underdogs in the betting.

Twenty-five years ago some of the greatest ball players in the history of the sport were ruled out of the game for life by Judge Kenesaw Landis, who was appointed to investigate the series. "Shoestring" Joe Jackson, Buck Weaver, Swede Risberg, Chick Gandil, Eddie Cicotte, Happy Fesch and Eddie Murphy were shunted to the sidelines for good under a dark cloud.

Arnold Rothstein, New York racketeer and gambler, was the man behind the throwing of the series, but he double-crossed most of the boys and left them holding the bag. Rothstein was later murdered after he pulled another phony in a poker game in which he walked out with $300,000 cash, his winnings.

Do you know that the Seattle Rainiers lost 35 games this season in the Coast League by one run? By winning half of those fixtures the Skiffmen would have walked away with the pennant by a fair margin.

Supporters of the Browns may be humming this song after today's double-header with the Yankees: "The St. Louis Blues," and don't say this corner didn't tell you so. My Yanks will win them both, mark the words of J.D.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, was crowned unofficial batting leader of the American League for the second consecutive season four years ago today? He ended up with a mark of .350, 36 points below his winning percentage of the previous year.

Several Victorians are making plans to travel to Vancouver during the second week of next month to watch the two all-star teams from the major leagues perform at Capilano Park. It has been several years since a club made up of big leaguers played on the Mainland, and your columnist watched the game from the first base bleachers during a heavy downpour. Showing class that day were the late Lou Gehrig, "Eddie" Ruth, Charley Gehringer, Moe Berg, Carl Hubbell and many other noted players. Al Schacht, baseball's noted comedian, was also on hand and delighted the ladies during the game. If things turn out as planned, J.D. will be sitting in the press box this time watching those American and National League boys going through their paces.

Jack Morgan, who is in the semi-finals of the handicap championship at the Gorge Vale Golf Club, is the same chap who used to belt those homers over left and centrefield walls at the Athletic Park for the Capitals several seasons ago. Jack played third base and was a dangerous man every time he stepped up to the plate. He always took a terrific cut at the ball and when he connected it usually landed out on Pembroke Street among the boulevard trees.

Abe Saperstein, Chicago baseball and basketball promoter of colored teams, says he will be back this time during the case season with a brand new edition of the Harlem Globetrotters. He was sorry to hear that we lost the Sports Centre at the Willows last April when it went up in smoke along with the arena.

FROM HERE AND THERE

The football season is just about ready to bow itself on the calendar for the 1944-45 season, so now is the time to give the members of the city parks board another hint and let's hope that some action is taken before the Fall and Winter months give way to Spring and the latter season to Summer. Last year this scribbler kept harping away for dressing-rooms for the juveniles, juniors and seniors who have to play their matches in the "wide open" spaces at times. They are forced to do this on the schedules can be completed in time for the various cup and play-off competitions. As I have said many times before, it wouldn't cost a great deal to construct dressing-rooms at these parks so the players can change from street clothes to their team uniforms without feeling somewhat embarrassed. Parks like Victoria West, Central and Heywood Avenue could do with some kind of shelter for the players, especially when it is raining and a cold wind is sweeping over the pitch. Rooms like these would give the footballers a chance to get warmed up during halftime. So we expect to get some results before the season is advanced very far from the members of the parks board.

Was talking to Ernie Butterworth, former principal of Boys' Central and Margaret Jenkins, School and one of the city's strongest supporters of English Rugby yesterday. The ex-Victoria manager of McKinnon Cup teams is up here from California on a short hol-

Cardinals Choice To Regain Honors

Will Be Presenting Strong Outfield Against American League Champions

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sport Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Hot or cold, Newhouse or Trout, Detroit, St. Louis or New York, how can you miss St. Louis Cardinals as the "paper" choice to regain the world series title they lost to the Yankees a year ago?

With a stand-out outfield built around Stan Musial, an infield hinged on Martin Marion, a catching department that includes Walker Cooper and a strong-arm mound staff of Mort Cooper, Ted Wilks and Harry Brecheen, the Red Birds slick out in all departments with the possible exception of pitching.

If it's Detroit in the American League corner, the Hal Newhouse-Dizay Trout combination could take the play from the Cards' staff. Mr. Left and Mr. Right have the stuff, when right, to stop any club in baseball, but they are tired and face more heavy duty before Sunday if they are to hurt the Tigers to the flag.

It's an old rule that pitching tells the story in a short series and he leaves it up to Newhouse and Trout to let them holding the bag. Rothstein was later murdered after he pulled another phony in a poker game in which he walked out with $300,000 cash, his winnings.

Do you know that the Seattle Rainiers lost 35 games this season in the Coast League by one run? By winning half of those fixtures the Skiffmen would have walked away with the pennant by a fair margin.

Supporters of the Browns may be humming this song after today's double-header with the Yankees: "The St. Louis Blues," and don't say this corner didn't tell you so. My Yanks will win them both, mark the words of J.D.

Durocher Signs For Next Season

BROOKLYN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers since 1939, today signed a one-year contract to pilot the club in 1945.

This is the first year the Dodgers have been out of the first division since Durocher succeeded Buehler Crisp. The club finished third in 1939, second in 1940, won the National League pennant in 1941, was runner-up to the Cardinals in 1942 and wound up third last year.

He was a Hungarian from Transylvania, and could talk to his subjects only through an interpreter. He ruled Poland from 1586 to 1596 and although he did not speak the language of his subjects he is considered the greatest of all Polish rulers, great as a statesman, warrior and patriot.

Action During Recent Softball Tournament

HALT! WHO GOES THERE? Action in the world's softball tournament, played at Lakewood, Ohio, is pictured as two girls' teams, the Arizona Ramblers and the Toronto Out, Sunday Morning Class, collide, with the Toronto ladies, the New Orleans Jax Club, defending champions, were ousted. The Canadians were later eliminated from their fifth world softball tournament, Cleveland, O., when they were edged out by Arizona Ramblers, 2-1.

Nanaimo XI Coming For Game Saturday

Familiar faces, many of them veterans of inter-city clashes of years ago, will be appearing here on Saturday afternoon when the Nanaimo Columbia Club steps onto the pitch at the Athletic Park to usher in the 1944-45 football season against Victoria All-Stars. The match is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock and Joe Obee will be in charge of the whistle. Everything points to a large turnout for those dyed-in-the-wool soccer fans who have been waiting for this day ever since the curtain was dropped on the softball and baseball seasons.

Johnny Sandland is managing the Up-Island club this year and he is bringing down a sprinkling of veterans and young material to test out the strong local machine, one which is mostly comprised of players from the Victoria Machinery Depot. The real veterans of the Nanaimo squad will be Orville Boyd, "Shadow" Watson, Rusty Russell and Orville Boyd, backs; Sandy Thompson, Bill Leigh and Johnny Peppers, halves; Jimmy Rice, Freddy Mills, Art Denton, Frank English, Ralph Maughams, Ross Naylor, Edson White and Johnny Golobor.

Prospects Brighter

School Rugby Will Be Game's Salvation

By OBSERVER

Another Rugby season has arrived and the prospects for another good year are most hopeful. Perhaps the most notable feature at the present time is the fact that public school boys are again to have a chance to revive school games. Thanks largely to the great interest Bob McInnes has always shown in the younger players, and as he pointed out to the writer yesterday, we would soon run out of good Rugby players unless the schoolboys are again playing Rugby.

It was Doug Wallis, Victoria High School coach, who also has had the same impression for some time. He has had to start many boys at high school age when they should have known the game before reaching high school. Catch 'em young is the real basis for developing really good Rugby players, so that a beginning by "Bob" McInnes will be a movement in the right direction.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

BROOKLYN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Hoping on three Brooklyn pitchers for nine runs in the fourth inning, Cincinnati Reds defeated the Dodgers, 10-6, today to move within one and a half games of the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Catcher Ray Mueller celebrated his record-breaking day with three hits to drive in two of the Redlegs runs. The iron-man receiver caught his 152nd game of the National League season to break the mark set by Ray Schalk, of Chicago White Sox, in 1929. It also was Mueller's 24th consecutive game, a carry-over from last year.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Bills Donnelly, a Cardinal rookie from Rochester, who had started only four games all season, sacked up St. Louis 10th victory today with a neat five-hit, 2-0 shutout job against New York Giants.

Billy Southworth benched Stan Musial, Martin Marion, Ray Sanders and Walker Cooper to rest them for the world series, but a newcomer named Johnny Antonelli supplied a sixth-inning single to score Willie Kuroski and break a scoreless duel between Donnelly and Ewald Pyle in the sixth. Danny Littwiler added the extra run on his 15th homer in the eighth.

Toasts and Tea

By J. V. McAREE

MOST people understand the extreme difficulties and hardships which beset the people of occupied countries who would like to offer resistance to the Nazis. Death would be the penalty for discovery, and perhaps death not only to the offender but for his family as well. How in such a desperate situation, and perhaps the sum of it will prove important in the final reckoning with Hitler. But when open resistance is out of the question and secret sabotage fraught with the gravest perils and beckoning only the hardest spirits, there are other ways of expressing opinions which are difficult to deal with. For instance, there is a story about a postmaster complaining that a new issue of Austrian postage stamps, bearing the heads of Hitler and Mussolini, was unsatisfactory, and ought to be withdrawn. He explained to an inspector that the people would persist in spitting on the wrong side of the stamps.

Doctors Discuss Mental Diseases at Conference

There is very little evidence to show that mental diseases in Canada are on the increase, but the overcrowding in mental homes of the country is disastrous, according to speakers at a conference of the British Columbia Medical Association convention at the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Stevenson said it should be remembered that mental diseases were not inherited as such, so that children born of tainted stock might live mentally healthy lives with proper guidance and training. Dr. Stevenson is professor of psychiatry at the University of Western Ontario.

Other speakers and their topics during the morning lecture series included Sir Chas. J. W. MacLeod, R.C.N.D. consultant in medicine, Columbia University, New York; Dr. J. C. MacLeod, R.C.N.D. consultant in medicine, Columbia University, New York; Dr. J. C. MacLeod, R.C.N.D. consultant in medicine, Columbia University, New York.

Dr. W. G. S. Giller, Vancouver, the last speaker, pointed out the importance of the conference in the study of mental diseases. He said that the conference was a very important one, and that it was a very important one, and that it was a very important one.

More Women Sell Life Insurance

Belief in many quarters that the increase in the number of women engaging in the insurance business was not merely a war condition, but that more women would be permanently engaged in the business was set out by H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance, in his annual report for 1943. The report was released yesterday by Hon. R. L. Malland, Attorney-General.

Mr. Garrett revealed that in 1941, each year for five years. The figures for other disbursements have tended to grow smaller. The average rate 150 in 1942, and to 179 in 1943.

The report says: "Life insurance again records a noteworthy increase in premium income. Disbursements show a larger amount paid out on death or maturity; these figures have increased each year for five years. The figures for other disbursements have tended to grow smaller. The average rate of interest earned by the companies on their investments continues to decline. The reduction is almost entirely in the class of bond securities as the rate of interest derived from mortgages has shown a tendency to rise, although the rate for new loans has fallen. The rate of dividends on stocks, which is the smallest class of security in a company's portfolio, remains fairly stable. The loss of earnings from bonds may be mainly attributed to the extensive participation by the companies in Government financing for the war.

Figures for fire insurance were again unfavorable, both premiums earned and losses incurred being higher, and the loss ratio being over 44 per cent for the second successive year compared with 38 per cent in the three years preceding. The ratio in the province was a little below the average for Canada.

Volume of auto insurance again decreased, but anticipations of a large reduction in premiums or losses had not been realized.
